The show at the Pavilion is a winner, all vaudeville and pictures being excellent. The big hit of the show is the act known as the Richies. These people have a very clever act. Three very cute little dogs play an important part in the act. These little animals, two of which are fuzzy white poodles and the other a fox terrier, produce more laughs than any animal act yet seen at the Pavilion. At the same time they endeavor themselves to all by their extreme cleverness and winning ways. The entire act is of the novelty kind, introducing cycle riding, dancing, contortion work, music and the dogs. It is an act that is bound to please all, and especially ladies and children. Landis and Knowles, the other act on the program, also offer a very neat, dainty sister act. The feature of the picture program for to-day and to-morrow will be a powerful Biograph production.
